

Adapting a sophisticated Ground Data System for use by a Deep Space Cubesat Mission

Every mission performs mission control functions through its development, integration, and operations lifecycle. INSPIRE chose the Advanced MultiMission Operations System (AMMOS) application AMPCS for mission control. The AMPCS system was adapted from much larger and more complex missions; this presentation will briefly describe how it was adapted for development and I&T for INSPIRE, including lessons learned.